

What You Need To Know About Wedding Room Blocks

Most people have never had experience with a wedding room block so here are some details as to why the bride and groom have asked their guests to book within their room block –

- You are attending a private event connected to a block of rooms. In order to have access to the event(s) you must book as part of the group. This is similar to booking a “convention package” where your room is directly connected to attending events.
- The quoted rates also include perks for the bride, groom, and wedding guests. These perks are not included in any online prices you might find.
- The contract group rate guarantees the same rate for everyone in the group. *The rates may change if you request a different room type.
- You may be denied access to the private events (ceremony, reception, etc) if you book outside the group.
- If access to the private event is allowed, a service fee per person, per each event, must be paid in order for you and any guest not booked in the group to attend.
- Those staying “off location” are often denied access to the venue.
- Wedding terms and conditions usually require the wedding couple to stay a minimum number of nights.
- Wedding terms and conditions usually require a certain number of guest rooms to be booked.
- If the minimum terms and conditions are not met the wedding couple will have to pay more for the wedding.
- The contracted group rates make sure everyone gets the same price and is included in all the activities.
